Subject: BUREAU CHIEF EXECUTIVE LEADERSHIP PROGRAM—FALL 2006

We are preparing to offer the third class of the Executive Leadership Program—Practical Leadership in an Era of Turbulence: A Diagnostic Approach for Decision Making. This program is tailored to the needs of incumbent bureau chiefs who have responsibility for managing multiple divisions and programs within and across County departments.

Our executive leadership program is designed for senior leaders who are committed to confronting facts honestly as a prologue to critical decision making. These leaders are committed to collaboration and teamwork, and seek to establish a culture of information gathering and sharing, open discussion and debate, and high involvement and empowerment.

Participants will do an actual assessment of the “culture” of their operations and propose potential interventions to further align with the County’s movement from Condition A to Condition B. Other dimensions of the program include choosing the “right” organization design, understanding the needs of the new workforce, and self-assessment and development of leadership behaviors.

The program held at the Department of Public Works beginning October 18, 2006, and will conclude April 11, 2007. It will consist of ten 4-hour classroom sessions, held from 4:00 – 8:00 p.m., on Wednesdays, plus scheduled team and individual coaching sessions with instructors. Participants will need to complete applied projects and will receive coaching from faculty on project development, findings interpretation, and intervention strategies. California State University faculty and County subject matter experts will teach classes. Participants may not miss more than one session (4 hours) and each class is limited to 16 participants.

This memorandum requests your assistance in identifying participants for the 2006 class. You may nominate up to two of your executive staff at the level of bureau chief or higher. Please use the attached nomination form for your nominee(s).
